Winter Bear Woman (inspirational fiction): Escaping from a bad relationship, Kate Pearson points her car north and keeps driving. Her journey leads her to Lake Superior and a small cabin in the north woods where she finds Olivia, a fiber artist looking for a caretaker and companion. Kate is plunged into a country life filled with fiber, knitting, weaving, and caring for a small herd of sheep. Her new life begins to unravel when she is trapped by a black bear and her experience leads her to explore the medicine of the bear. When Olivia's neighbor, Neal, invites her to an earth wisdom ceremony, she meets TwoRivers, a keeper of ancient earth wisdom and begins to understand her connection to the bear. As her relationship with Neal and his four-year-old daughter grows, Kate is drawn back to her city life when her father is seriously injured in an accident. Kate must decide whether to stay in her safe life at home or return to her new life in the northern wilderness and her growing connection to the earth wisdom.

Will she accept her new life as Winter Bear Woman?

Gifts of the Storm (inspirational fiction): From children's pageants to the glitzy world of expensive horse shows, 'dress up, look pretty, and smile' was the story of Maureen's life. Now, her husband chooses another woman, leaving Maureen and her pre-teen daughter faced with broken fences and four equine mouths to feed. When a stray dog wanders onto her farm, Maureen finds her life complicated by a retired rodeo cowboy and a 2,300 pound shorthorn bull. Can she hang on for the ride? Maureen learns to find the gifts of her turbulent life, and discovers the joy of the family she never had.

Fairy Wings (inspirational children's fiction): Where do fairies come from? When five-year-old Cora finds a baby fairy in the woods, she must learn to care for her fairy until Cora can get her wings.

Spirit Rider (inspirational fiction): When Jayne Masterson looks in the eyes of her new quarterhorse mare, she sees a gentle soul waiting to emerge. When she lands in the dirt, she begins a journey of healing through animal communication, natural horsemanship and the ancient Mayan teachings of the medicine wheel. But, is it her horse, or herself who needs healing?
